PROJECT REPORT

Poor digital communication can lead to serious misunderstandings. For example, if a student sends an email to a professor without a proper subject line or uses informal language, it may be ignored or considered unprofessional.

In such situations, the problem arises due to lack of awareness about proper email etiquette. A clear subject line, respectful tone, and structured message are essential for effective communication.

PROJECT REPORT

This task helped me understand the importance of professionalism in online communication. Using proper greetings, clear messages, and polite language can create a positive impression and improve communication outcomes.
